

Deoxyribonucleic acid (DNA) is the molecule that encodes the genetic instructions in all living things

The DNA double helix was discovered by James Watson and Francis Crick in March 1953.

